During lockdown school administration is going to make agreement with their employees that during pandemic teachers must work with 15% deducted salaries. Is it lawful?? Although teachers are taking online classes with more hectic routine n much more timings than regular teaching. Often teachers are ordered to work late nights to submit reports n sheets, the whole day spend in sending n receiving tasks from students, calling parents for reminders. Due to all this no one can give proper time to their families n children, and now this information is floated that teachers will be given 15% deducted salaries.
